

Course number and section: CORH 204 001

Course Topic: Communications in the Humanities

Credits: 3

Term: 2022 W T1

Instructor: Anita Chaudhuri

Course Description:

In CORH 204 students explore writing that is pertinent to studies in Humanities. Academic disciplines in this field not only approach topics from a wide range of viewpoints but also employ different research methods and rhetorical strategies to develop convincing arguments for their audience. The argumentative stances and their presentation also vary according to the genre of writing. Understanding different expectations across academic domains can help writers successfully participate in a range of conversations.

Other: